FOREWORD

I have great pleasure in writing a Foreword to this work on the Manuscripts Collection of Deśamaṅgalam Vāriyam in Kerala by Dr. K.V. Sarma, an assiduous and indefatigable scholar who has been specializing in the fields of manuscriptology and Indian astronomy and mathematics for more than half a century now. In this volume Dr. Sarma has edited seven Lists of manuscripts, containing 1640 codices, which belonged to the Deśamaṅgalam Vāriyar family near Triprangot on the banks of the Bharatappuzha river. Unfortunately, the manuscripts are no longer with the family. Most of the manuscripts had been washed away during a flood in 1907. From what has been spared Dr. Sarma has been able to trace (127 + 146) 273 manuscripts which remain deposited in the various libraries in India. Many rare titles are found in these lists. Records show that prior to the flood several manuscripts had been pledged with the rich Kūṭallūr Nampūtiri family for monetary consideration. This accounts for the saving of at least a part of this valuable collection.

It is possible that some more manuscripts of the collection might have been saved by having been passed on, before the floods, to the Koṭṭakkal Vāriyam and the Panniyampalḷi Vāriyam, both at Koṭṭakkal, and with both of which Deśamaṅgalam Vāriyam was closely related by family alliances. It would also seem that the manuscripts of Līlātilakam and Candrotsavam which had been made available by the late Vaidyaratnam P.S. Variyar for publication and study to Kerala scholars, had been directly or indirectly based on the manuscripts of these texts available in the Deśamaṅgalam Collection. Still other possible sources where Deśamaṅgalam manuscripts are preserved are the different Kovilakam-s ('royal households') of the Zamorins of Calicut, including the one at Koṭṭakkal.

It is to be noted that the Deśamaṅgalam Collection contained a large number of hitherto unknown, rare and important texts. And, researchers on Sanskrit literature will find in the Deśamaṅgalam Lists edited and annotated by Dr. Sarma, an authentic basis for instituting a search for more Deśamaṅgalam manuscripts in private and public repositories.

PREFACE

Manuscripts Collection of the Deśamaṅgalam Vāriyam, published as No. 2 of the Madras Indological Series, forms an 'Annotated Catalogue' of 1640 palmleaf manuscripts, carrying about 5000 to 6000 texts, which belonged to the scholarly family of Deśamaṅgalam Vāriyam in Central Kerala. The Vāriyam had, during the middle ages, been functioning as a 'College of learning' (Vidyābhyāsa-khalūrikā), specialising in grammar and the belles lettres in Sanskrit. One of the largest private libraries of Kerala, this manuscripts collection is no more intact in the Vāriyam. Most of the manuscripts have been lost and much of the rest have disintegrated. Dr. K.V. Sarma, the indefatigable manuscriptologist, has, however, been able to recover six old Lists of the collection and has added one of his own, and has edited these Lists with a highly useful annotatory translation. These annotations relate to four matters, viz., (i) Ascertainment of the full titles of the texts included in the Lists, but given only in summarised or abbreviated forms in the lists or inscribed on the flyleaves; (ii) identifying the authors; (iii) supplying relevant correlatory details in the case of commentaries; and (iv) indicating the subjects of the several texts.

What is more, Dr. Sarma has, as a result of extensive examination of manuscripts libraries, been able to locate as many as 285 manuscripts which once belonged to the Collection. Such identification has been made primarily on the basis of the special Deśamaṅgalam logos mudrā inscribed on the flyleaves of the respective manuscripts themselves. The manuscripts so identified have been noticed in the footnotes against the relevant manuscripts with their accession numbers in the respective libraries.

The Deśamaṅgalam Collection is particularly important, in that it had contained manuscripts of a number of hitherto unknown texts besides unique and important manuscripts. Dr. Sarma has identified some of the important texts and it is very much worthwhile to search for texts whose titles are made known by the Deśamaṅgalam lists, while the manuscripts themselves have perished. To be sure, one of the uses to which the present Catalogue can be put to would be to look for, in extant collections, manuscripts of the said rare and important texts, for study and research.

The Kuppuswami Sastri Research Institute (Adarsh Sanskrit Shodha Samstha) is extremely grateful to Dr. Sarma for producing this work and placing it at the disposal of the Samstha for its publication. The thanks of the Samstha are due to Dr. K.K. Raja, Director, Adyar Library and Research Centre for providing this volume with his valuable Foreword and to Vijaya Graphics, Madras, who are responsible for the nice printing and get-up of this volume.

INTRODUCTION

Introductory

The Deśamaṅgalaṃ Vāriyam is an ancient family of Sanskrit scholars in Central Kerala, situated in the village of Deśamaṅgalaṃ, 35 kms. north of Trichur, in the erstwhile State of Cochin. Tradition holds that in the matter of material prosperity and literary cultivation this family had, in an ample measure, the blessings and patronage of the affluent neighbouring Nampūtiri families of Kūṭallūr and Deśamaṅgalaṃ. The Kūṭallūr Nampūtiri is also said to have procured the Vāriyam the office of tutorship in the court of the Zamorins of Calicut, which office and some other privileges the family even now enjoys hereditarily.

The family of the Deśamaṅgalaṃ Vāriyars has produced several scholars of renown named Śrīkaṇṭha and Rudra, two names which were generally used in the family. Abhirāma, the well-known commentator on Śākuntala, has been identified in some quarters with one of these Śrīkaṇṭhas. These scholars specialised in Jyotiṣa and Vyākaraṇa and also in general Kāvya literature in which its members have written several works, both original texts and commentaries. The introductory verses to Bālābodhinī, a commentary on the Śiśupālavadha of poet Māgha by a Śrīkaṇṭha describes their family seat as a college imparting studies in literature:

(Ms No.: R. 2732, Govt. Or. Mss. Library, Madras)

The Collection

A fact not well-known is that this family possessed also one of the largest collections of manuscripts in mediaeval Kerala. Old palmleaf manuscripts of this family containing detailed lists of the collection have been discovered lately and are edited here with notes.¹ The main Ms., No. 1262, is not dated but, from its appearance, seems to be more than two hundred years old. The fringes of the leaves have frayed away but the writing has not been affected. Two leaves are missing in the middle and the manuscript comprises, at present, of 50 leaves. It begins : Hariḥ. Deśamaṅgalatta Vāriyatte granthaṅṅaḷuṭe kaṇakku (Hariḥ. List of Mss. in the Deśamaṅgalam Vāriyam). There are three lists in this Ms., beginning on folios 1, 24 and 37, respectively. The first is arranged according to subjects and the second and third are miscellaneous lists. The third collection is said, in its title, to have been "deposited at the Kunnattūr Kizhakke Kovilakam".

The Fourth List edited in the present publication is found written on the end-leaves of a palmleaf manuscript identified to be a Deśamaṅgalam manuscript and preserved in the Kerala University Manuscripts Library as Ms. No. 489 (Serial No. 1543 in the present edn.). In the body proper of the manuscript is written an anonymous commentary of Pāṇini's Āṣṭādhyāyī, chs. III-IV. This List carries 301 manuscripts, numbered in the present edition as 1047 to 1347. The Fifth List is found written on the last folios of another Deśamaṅgalam manuscript, No. 561 of the Kerala University Mss. Library, (No. 1552 in the edn.), the main text written herein being the commentary of Bhavānanda on Tattvacintāmaṇi-dīdhiti-prakāśa. This List enumerates the titles of 112 manuscripts, numbered in the present edition as 1348 to 1459. The Sixth List is contained in the last two folios of another Deśamaṅgalam manuscript, KU. Ms. No. 1153, and enumerates 54 manuscripts, being nos. 1460 to 1513 of the present edition. The manuscripts, carrying Lists IV, V and VI, though old, have a later appearance than the main codex, Ms. No. 1262, which carries the names of the bulk of the Deśamaṅgalam manuscripts. Obviously, these latter lists had been prepared when further additions had been acquired by the Deśamaṅgalam Vāriyam. And, instead of devoting a separate codex for these smaller lists, they were written on the blank leaves in certain manuscripts, in order to keep track of the new acquisitions.

List VII of the present edition is of still higher interest. Now, through an examination of the post-colophonic and other details given in descriptive catalogues of South Indian manuscripts preserved in Mss. Libraries, it has been possible for the present writer to identify several Deśamaṅgalam manuscripts whose description and titles tally with those given in the Lists. Manuscripts identified in this manner have been noted as footnotes to the entries in question, with the indication of the library numbers of the respective manuscripts. But, what is more interesting, it has been possible to identify in the different Libraries as many as 137 palmleaf manuscripts having, on their flyleaves, characteristic Deśamaṅgalam inscriptions. The titles of the texts inscribed on the flyleaves of these manuscripts do not tally with any of the manuscripts contained in Lists I-VI. It should be obvious that the Deśamaṅgalam Vāriyam had been adding manuscripts to their family collection even after the last list, VI, had been prepared.

The 127 manuscripts identified, as stated above, should have been part of these later acquisitions, which have found their way into these Libraries for several reasons. These 127 manuscripts have been edited here as Nos. 1514 to 1640 in this publication, as List VII with the indication of the Mss. numbers of these manuscripts in the respective Libraries.

The examination of the manuscripts included in List VII, which could be physically scrutinised, while those in the earlier Lists could be known only through their titles given in the 'Lists', has revealed a characteristic of the manuscripts in the Deśamaṅgalam collection. More often than not, a manuscript (codex) would have written in it more than one text, sometimes six or seven, if some of them were shorter texts. What has been done by the old cataloguer of the manuscripts, and the inscriber of the family mudrā on the flyleaves of the codices, has been to record only the main text(s) contained therein and ignore the shorter texts, if any, which too had been written in the codices. This matter was observed in the case of the manuscripts of List VII, of which both the old cataloguer's title and the codices themselves were available, while in the case of the codices of Lists I-VI only the cataloguer's titles were available. For this reason, in the case of Lists I-VI, where the manuscripts themselves were not available for examination, the edition had to be restricted to recording the old cataloguer's 'titles' and the 'Annotated translation' had to be based thereon for the supply of the names of authors, full titles, commentators etc. Since most of the 'titles' had been given without naming the author, this could not always be done fully. In the case of List VII, details of the 'entire contents' of the codices, including the minor works, could be recorded by actually examining the codices. This raises the important point that, unfortunately, the details of the large number of shorter texts that could have been contained in the codices of Lists I-VI remain unknown, except in the case of such manuscripts which have been recovered and deposited in different Libraries. It might be noted that the link words and minor details noted in the Malayalam language by the old cataloguer on the flyleaves of codices have been duly recorded in the 'edition'-column and translated into English in the 'Annotated translation'-column in the edition. Any extra recording by the old cataloguer, like the 'number of codices' against an entry, also has been recorded duly in the edition.

Extent of the Collection

The seven lists, together, contain 1640 codices and as most of these codices contained, geneally, more than one text, sometimes five or six texts, as noted earlier, on a fair estimate, the number of texts contained in the entire collection could be between 5000 and 6000. Practically all subjects are covered but with the exclusion of Vedic texts. Among the subjects, belles lettres, including kāvya, nāṭaka, gadya and campu, and grammar, including the systems of Pāṇini, Dharmakīrti and Bhoja, predominate. Among other subjects which come next in importance are Jyotiṣa, Vaidya, Alaṅkāraśāstra and Nyāya. The above subjects give an indication of the predilection of the Deśamaṅgalam scholars in what they wrote and collected. An aspect worth mentioning is the profusion of commentaries on kāvya, nāṭaka and vyākaraṇa. A statistical analysis of the texts contained in the Lists will bear this out. Another matter to be noted is that the texts contained are predominantly in the Sanskrit language, there being but a few original Malayalam texts.

Destiny of the Collection

This collection is not, however, extant today intact. According to the information supplied, sometime back, by D. Rama Variyar, a senior member of the Deśamaṅgalam family, the unusually heavy floods, which occurred in 1907, in the river on the bank of which the hereditary family house was situated, uprooted and washed away the entire first floor of the house along with the manuscripts collection stacked therein. He reminiscises that, as a boy of five or six, it was in the manuscripts hall that he and the boys of the neighbourhood received their elementary education. He had seen, in this hall, several rows of wooden shelves reaching upto the roof neatly stacked with palmleaf manuscripts. When the flood waters rose, the entire family fled the place and, when they returned a few days later when the floods had subsided, there was little to collect and store. In this catastrophe the land has lost one of its most valuable literary treasure houses! The only consolation herein is that before this tragedy occurred, due to a quirk of providence, a few hundred manuscripts from this collection happened to have been passed on to other hands where they remained safe and could be recognised by the Deśamaṅgalam imprint inscribed on their flyleaves. Thus, some manuscripts had been transferred also to the Zamorin's Kovilakam in Kottakkal and some given away to manuscripts collectors like M.R. Kavi and R.A. Sastri.

The veteran manuscripts collector, the late R. Ananthakrishna Sastri (R.A. Sastri, for short), had been responsible for the enrichment of several Oriental Institutes and Manuscripts Libraries in India, including Madras, Bombay, Baroda, Banaras, Lahore and several other places. And, he used to put his bold signature in blue pencil over every manuscript that he procured, a mark that could be seen on many manuscripts in several libraries. The Deśamaṅgalam Manuscripts found in North Indian institutions owe their presence in those libraries to R.A. Sastri.

But, by far the largest number of Deśamaṅgalam manuscripts procured by R.A. Sastri was for a new Oriental Manuscripts Library which was established as a Department of the newly started Travancore University (now Kerala University) in 1937. And, as the first consignment to this library R.A. Sastri procured 1300 palmleaf manuscripts from Kūṭallūr-Meḷeṭattu-Mana, (Nampūtiri house), called also Nārieri-mana and Svarṇattu-mana, and these manuscripts were accessioned in the Library as nos.1-1300. It has so happened that a number of Deśamaṅgalam manuscripts had landed in the Kūṭallūr Mana. Now, on the reverse of the last leaf of one of the Deśamaṅgalam manuscripts included in the above-said consignment viz., KU Ms. No. 674 (see No.19 of the present publication, being a manuscript of Kāśikāvṛtti-vyākhyā (Padamañjarī), is to be found a very informative statement written in a later hand, which reads:

The above statement, which is Malayalam, means : ‘1500 fanams-s have to be paid to Nāriri-mana by the Deśamaṅgalatta Vāriyam. Towards that, manuscripts were deposited’. This statement obviously means that a certain number of Deśamaṅgalam manuscripts had been pledged to the Kūṭallūr mana. This fact is reinforced by another statement on the flyleaf of another Deśamaṅgalam manuscript (KU No.742, our edition, No 26), where the name of the original owner, written as Deśamaṅgalatta vāriyatte, has an inscription in continuation in uninked later writing. “na, kintu Kūṭallūre”, ‘no, but the property of Kūṭallūr.’ It is obvious that the loan had not been repaid and the pledge redeemed, and the Deśamaṅgalam manuscripts continued to be in the possession of Kūṭallūr mana. Anyway, this has proved, in the end, to be a blessing in disguise, for the reason that a part of the Deśamaṅgalam manuscripts were saved from the devastating floods of 1907 which swept away the bulk of the manuscripts from their original home, and to be transferred later to the University Manuscripts Library, Trivandrum, where they are now kept in good preservation.

Deśamaṅgalam Logos

The distinguishing mark or Logos (mudrā) of the Deśamaṅgalam manuscripts is the inscription Deśamaṅgalatta vāriyatta vaka or Deśamaṅgalatta vāriyatta grantham ('Property/Manuscript of the Deśamaṅgalattu Variyam') or an abbreviation thereof, found uniformly inscribed on the first or last leaf of every Deśamaṅgalam manuscript. More often than not, the said inscription would be in a hand different from that of the scribe of the manuscript and, generally, uninked. It is clear that this logos was inscribed on the manuscripts by the person in charge whenever a manuscript was added to the collection by being newly written or procured by loan or purchase from elsewhere.

The Deśamaṅgalam family

On the matter of the literary talents and motive for academic pursuits of the members of the Deśamaṅgalam family, tradition ascribes it to the grace of a famous sannyāsin named Karippāla Svāmiyār. It is said that once when the Svāmiyār was camping at the temple at Cheruturuthi in the Cochin State, an aristocratic nampūtiri of the locality of the Kapliṇṇāṭ house, whose wife was pregnant, requested the Svāmiyār to give her, for 40 days, butter consecrated by him with mantras so that she might give birth to an intellectual son. Coming to know of this, a female member of the Maṇikkūṭti vāriyam (Deśamaṅgalam Vāriyam) who was also in the family way, arranged through the priest of the temple, for butter consecrated by the Svāmiyār to be given to her also. The priest who was to hand over the butter packets to the two women, wanted to favour the Vāriyar lady and, knowing that the butter consecrated for the nampūtiri lady would be having more merit, used to exchange the two packets when he actually handed them over to the two recipients when they came to the temple every day for worship. In due course, sons were born to both the ladies. But lo! the son of the nampūtiri lady grew up indifferent to studies but proficient in music and at playing on the drum and the son of the Vāriyar lady to be brilliant at academic studies. The former became famous as the originator of the Kapliṇṇāṭ school of Kathakali dance-drama and the latter as the patriarch of a new generation of Deśamaṅgalam school of literary masters.¹

Deśamaṅgalam Rama Variyar, eminent Sanskritist and scion of the family, referred to earlier, who had been in correspondence with me for some years, has written to me stating that the above-said patriarch was Rudra Vāriyar (c. 1475-1550), author of the commentary Vivarāṇa, called also Naukā, on the Horāsāstra or Bṛhajjātaka of Varāhamihira, written in A.D. 1527. While Rudra was a boy, his father took him to the Kūṭallūr Nampūtiri's household '(mana)', which was functioning as a 'college' for Vyākaraṇa studies, and implored Kūṭallūr Nampūtiri to accept him as a student. Since Vyākaraṇa involved the study of Vedic passages in the svara-prakriyā section and in examples in Pāṇinian grammar, the Nampūtiri was reluctant to take that non-brahman boy as a student. But, later, seeing the extraordinary brilliance of the boy, he eventually accepted him as his disciple, but taught him the subject avoiding scrupulously Vedic passages and the Vedic Section. Taking the cue from this, when the Deśamaṅgalam Vāriyam developed into a centre for Vyākaraṇa, it switched on to the study, teaching and propagation of Vyākaraṇa mainly through the Jain grammatical treatise Rūpāvatāra of Dharmakīrti which did not treat of Vedic grammar at all. The popularity of Dharmakīrti's work among Vāriyars is exemplified in the verse:

Dharmakīrti-mahāsāstra-cintā-vyākulacetasaḥ/
rājante vārijā bhadraḥ kevalam Keralesu hi//

(vārija is the Sanskritisation of the Malayalam word vāriya)

(anon. post-col. verse in a Ms. of the Kerala Univ.
Mss. Library, Palace collection, Ms. No. 1090)

As indicated earlier, the members of the Deśamaṅgalam family bore the two personal names Rudra (Mal. Uzhutra or Uzhuttira) and Śrīkaṇṭha (Mal., Ikkaṇṭa or Ukkaṇṭa), the Sanskrit names being used during religious ceremonies and literary works while the Malayalam names were used in their social and domestic appellation. The repeated use of these two names in the family has made it difficult in the matter of correlating texts correctly to their authors who bore the same name but were different in their personalities and belonged to different periods. It might also be noted incidentally that the appellation rudradāsa was used in Kerala to designate the caste of temple functionaries called vāriyar, while the term vaiṣṇava was used to designate another caste of temple functionaries called piṣāraṭi. It is also to be added that these two appellations do not have much significance to the religious leaning of either the vāriyars or the piṣāraṭis, both of whom are equally devoted to Śiva and Viṣṇu.

The tutelary deity of the Deśamaṅgalam family is Goddess Durgā, called also Kolūr Bhagavati, installed in a walled temple complex called Maṇikkūṭṭi ampalam. In the same complex are two more temples, one of Śiva called Perum-tṛkkovil-appan, and the other of Viṣṇu, called Maṇikkūṭṭi-tevar. On the basis of the family temple the family is also called Maṇikkūṭṭi-vāriyam.

It was primarily at the instance of their literary patrons, the Kūṭallūr Nampūtiris, who wielded influence in the royal court of Kozhikode (Calicut), that hereditary tutorship in the Zamorin's family was bestowed upon the Deśamaṅgalam Vāriyam. The Vāriyam was also bestowed certain rights on occasions of religious and social ceremonies in the royal household, like vidyārambha (initiation at teaching), caula (tonsure) and ariyittu vāzhca (installation on the throne). And, in their capacity as teachers to the royalty, the family was given wet lands yielding 12,000 measures of paddy per annum besides 200 measures of paddy as varṣāśana (annual provender).

Deśamaṅgalam Authors and their Writings

It is not surprising that the Deśamaṅgalam family has produced several generations of scholars who have authored a number of works, both original and commentarial. Some of these works are exceptionally good and were popular as attested by their manuscript copies being available in several private collections and modern manuscripts libraries. As mentioned earlier, most of the members of the family bore common personal names like Rudra (Mal. Uzhutra, Uzhuttira) and Śrīkaṇṭha that it is a problem to identify them in the genealogical line. Some used other names like Rāma, Kṛṣṇa and also pseudonyms like Abhirāma. The Deśamaṅgalam scholars and their works have been the subject of study by several modern scholars,¹ for which reason an attempt is not made here in that direction. But what is more important, several hitherto unknown works of Deśamaṅgalam authors have come to light from these Lists. Some of them have been specified in the Lists by such statements as Deśamaṅgalattu Vāriyar uṇṭākkīyatu, 'authored by a Deśamaṅgalam Vāriyar', often without mentioning the author's personal name, and some suggested by the context, tradition or probability. Moreover, the Lists carry a number of important or rare texts, which point to the richness of the collection.

Among works known to be by Deśamaṅgalam authors are:

1. Candralekhā-saṭṭaka by Rudradāsa (No. 600, 601b)
2. Raghūdaya by Śrīkaṇṭha (No. 1090)
3. Śauricarita by Śrīkaṇṭha (Nos. 1259, 1338)
4. C. on Anargharāghava of Murāri (Nos. 730-31)
5. C. Diṇmātradarśinī by Śrīkaṇṭha on Abhijñāna-Śākuntalam of Kālidāsa (No. 586)
6. C. Ākhyātadīpikā by Śrīkaṇṭha, pupil of Śrīkaṇṭha on Kumārasambhava of Kālidāsa (Nos. 712-13; PUL II.4275 : vol. II, p. 252)
7. C. Kṛṣṇīya by Kṛṣṇa on the Kṛṣṇagīti or Kṛṣṇanāṭaka of Mānaveda (DRV)
8. C. Kavihrdayadarpaṇa by Śrīkaṇṭha on Nalodaya of Vāsudeva (Nos. 745-46, 1548b; PUL, vol.II p. 256)
9. C. on the Dhvanyāloka-locana of Abhinavagupta, (NCC, IX, p, 312)
10. C. Guṇottarā by Śrīkaṇṭha on Mālavikāgnimitra of Kālidāsa (Ulloor, II, p. 338)

Besides, several works have been conjectured, on the basis of external and internal evidence, to have been written by Deśamaṅgalam scholars. They are:

20. C. on Arthaśāstra of Kauṭilya (DRV. Cf. Nos. 240-41, 685a, 686)
21. C. by Śrīkaṇṭha (Abhirāma) on Uttararāmacarita of Bhavabhūti (Ulloor, II, p. 339, Cf. No. 562)

28. C. by Śrīkaṇṭha (Abhirāma) on Vikramorvaśīya of Kālidāsa (Ulloor II, p. 339)

29. C. Vivaraṇa by Rudra on the Horāśāstra of Varāhamihira (DRV. Cf. Nos. 1503-4)

Manuscripts have not been identified in the Lists for a few of the works mentioned above. This could be for the reason that some leaves are missing in the List-manuscripts, as pointed out earlier. Clinching evidences for their ascription to Deśamaṅgalam authors remain to be looked for.

Unique, Unknown, Rare and Important Texts

As indicated above, manuscripts of certain works found in the Lists are unique and hitherto unknown, and some of the texts are rare and important. Some of these texts are worth special mention and are noticed below.¹ Apart from providing the information of the existence of these texts, this mention could give one the incentive to be on the lookout for these texts in fresh collections of manuscripts, and even in old ones.

1. Elāṅkuḷattu-Saṭṭakam, anon. (No. 821)
2. Gaṇitacintāmaṇi, anon. (No. 1499)
3. Govindavijaya, anon. (No. 455)

19. C. by a Deśamaṅgalam Vāriyar on Setubandha of Pravarasena (No. 684)

Manuscripts of several rare and important texts also find a place in the Lists.

Deśamaṅgalam Specialisations

An over-all examination of the Lists would give a fair indication of the priorities and the specialisations in the Deśamaṅgalam Vāriyam in the matter of learning, teaching, propagation and acquirement of literature. It is seen that though nearly all subjects in Sanskrit are represented in the collection, of course, to the exclusion of Vedic texts and the Vedic affiliate, Mīmāṃsāsāstra, works on Kāvya, Nāṭaka, Alaṅkāra and Vyākaraṇa predominate the collection. Next come Jyotiṣa, Āyurveda and Nyāya, followed by the various other subjects. Just as there has been selectivity in the matter of subjects, a similar selectivity is discernible in the matter of the texts and authors studied. This aspect is to be seen in the number of the manuscripts of each and also in the writings of the Deśamaṅgalam authors.

Among the Kāvya, Kālidāsa and his works have the pride of place. Apart from the presence of a large number of Kālidāsa-manuscripts in the collection, all his works have been commented upon by Deśamaṅgalam scholars.

Māgha's Śiśupālavadha had been a favourite in the family. Apart from the presence of as many as 42 manuscripts of the work and its commentaries in the collection, Śrīkaṇṭha's commentary, Bālabodhikā(nī) on the work, is considered to be the best commentary on Śiśupālavadha. Other favourites include Yudhiṣṭhiravijaya of Vāsudeva, Anargharāghava of Murāri, and the three plays of Bhavabhūti. There are also two Prakṛt dramas, the Candralekhā-saṭṭaka and the Elanṅkulattu-saṭṭaka, and several bhāṇa manuscripts, including the famous composite manuscript containing four bhāṇas which the late M.R. Kavi and S.K. Ramanatha Sastri used to issue their edition of Caturbhāṇī (Madras, 1922). The Prakṛt mahākāvya Setubandha of Pravarasena and several commentaries thereon, one by a Deśamaṅgalam Vāriyar, too are present in number in the collection. Rāmāyaṇa, Mahābhārata, Bhāgavata and Mārkaṇḍeya Purāṇa too account for a number of manuscripts.

Vyākaraṇa is dominated by Pāṇini's Aṣṭādhyāyī, Dhātupāṭha and Gaṇapāṭha, Mahābhāṣya and its commentaries, Kāśikā and its commentaries, Vākyapadīya of Bhartṛhari and its auto-commentary and commentaries by Vṛṣabha and Helārāja, Bhojā's Sarasvatīkaṇṭhābharāṇa, and the Dhātuvṛtti of Mādhava. Bhaṭṭoji's Siddhāntakaumudī, and Rūpavatāra of Dharmakīrti and its commentaries, including the Nīvī of Śaṅkara, a Deśamaṅgalaṃ grammarian, have a special place in the collection. Several texts on Prākṛt grammar are also present.

On Alaṅkāraśāstra, the Dhvanyāloka of Ānandavardhana and its commentary Locana by Abhinavagupta and the sub-commentaries thereon by Udaya and Dāśarathī, and Bhojā's Sarasvatīkaṇṭhābharāṇa and Śṛṅgāraprakāśa are present in numbers. There is also a new work, a Locana-vyākhyā by Paṭṭeri (Bhaṭṭatiri) who has yet to be identified. Other texts which are present in numbers in the collection are the Alaṅkārasūtra of Ruyyaka and its commentary by Samudrabandha, Daśarūpaka of Dhanañjaya and its commentaries, and Kāvyaaprakāśa of Maṃmaṭa. Nāṭyaśāstra of Bharata and Abhinavagupta's commentary Abhinavabhāratī thereon are also represented by several manuscripts.

Manuscripts of texts in Nyāya, Kashmir Śaivism, Āyurveda, Jyotiṣa and Arthaśāstra are distributed in good numbers all through the Lists. The titles include also the Malayalam commentaries on several texts besides a few original works in Malayalam including the Adhyātmamāyāṇa of Tunchattu Ezhuttacchan (several manuscripts), Dr̥kkaraṇam, and Candrotsavam.

Colophons in Manuscripts

A few post-colophonic or frontal statements, inscribed in a later hand, at the close of manuscripts, or on flyleaves and margins in the beginning, extracted below from a few Deśamaṅgalaṃ manuscripts are intended to show how these manuscripts were identified as having once been part of the said collection. These statements specifically mention their ownership and sometimes provide also other useful information about the contents of the manuscripts, their condition, dates, scribes and other allied matters. They also illustrate how manuscripts which belonged to South Indian collections of palmleaf manuscripts, especially in Kerala, could be identified. These statements are all couched in the local language, Malayalam.

'Dešamaṅgalam Vāriyam has to return 1500 fanams to Nāriri (i.e., Kūṭallūr) mana. In lieu of that manuscripts were pledged.'

xiii. Change of ownership

1. 'Dešamaṅgalatte Vāriyatte grantham', (in earlier writing), followed by 'Kūṭallūra Manakkale babhūva', (in later writing). (KU 992).
2. 'Dešamaṅgalatta Vāriyatte', in earlier writing, followed by the inscription, 'na kintu Kūṭallūre.' (KU 742).

The Dešamaṅgalam Lists themselves mention several manuscripts as to have belonged originally to others. This would mean that they have been procured by gift, loan, pledge or purchase from their previous owners. Indirectly, this implies one of the methods of developing large manuscripts collections by affluent literary-minded persons in the land. Some of these instances, where such indications are found, are noticed below.

Acknowledgements

The incentive to the present edition of the Lists of Deśamaṅgalam Collection of manuscripts came from the edition by R.A. Sastri of a similar collection entitled Kavīndrācārya Sūcīpatram : Kavīndrācārya List (Baroda, 1921, Gaekwad's Oriental Series, No. 17). In this publication has been 'reproduced' an old manuscript, being a classified list of 2192 texts which originally formed the library built up by a famous 17th century Maharashtra Sannyāsin named Kavīndrācārya Sarasvatī, who had settled in Varanasi. Kavīndrācārya's library too is not extant now. Most of its manuscripts appear to have been lost, but several of them are found preserved in the different manuscripts libraries of India, including the Kerala University Mss. Library where four Kavīndrācārya manuscripts have been preserved, as procured by R.A. Sastri for the Library. It is easy to identify a Kavīndrācārya manuscript since every manuscript in the collection carries at its beginning or its end, in beautiful Devanagari script, inscribed in a later hand, the monogram:

Sarvavidyānidhāna - Kavīndrācārya - Sarasvatīnām idam pustakam.

This is similar to what is found in the Deśamaṅgalam manuscripts which carry the inscription Deśamaṅgalattu Vāriyatte vaka or some wording to that effect. The Kavīndrācārya List merely gives the titles of the texts with no indication of authors nor any further details, merely reproducing the List as it is, without even providing an Index. In the present edition of the Deśamaṅgalam Lists an annotated translation of the entries has been added, identifying and giving in 'full form' the titles, and authors, and also supplying them when they are not mentioned in the Lists. The subjects of the texts have also been indicated in abbreviation. An exhaustive Index with cross references has also been supplied. Incidentally, the Deśamaṅgalam collection of 1640 codices, containing 5000 to 6000 texts, gives the lie to a statement made in the Introduction to the Kavīndrācārya List edition, when it says : "In my tours in search of Mss. throughout India during the last 60 years, I have been greatly impressed by the richness of the Mss. to be seen lying neglected in different places, often in the most obscure and unexpected corners. In my tours, especially in the North, I have found lists enumerating from 1000 to 3000 Mss., but without the corresponding Mss. On the other hand in Southern India, generally there are no lists preserved and the number of Mss. does not exceed 300." (Kavīndrācārya Sūci, Intro., p. vii). Several other collection in South India, including Tamilnadu and Kerala, are also known to have possessed considerable number of manuscripts, some possessing also lists thereof.

The prime source of the information recorded in this publication, both in the matter of the basic Lists and the references gathered from numerous manuscripts scrutinized, had been the Kerala University Oriental Research Institute and Manuscripts Library, Trivandrum. I am extremely grateful to the authorities of the Institute who provided me with the necessary facilities to carry out my work. In typing the press copy and preparing the index slips considerable assistance was rendered by Shri P.K. Bhaskaran, Research Scholar. I desire to put on record the painstaking and meticulous manner in which he has carried out the work entrusted to him. I had been the receipient of several suggestions from Dr. N. Gangadharan of the Department of Sanskrit, University of Madras, in the production of this book, for which I am much grateful to him. My thanks are due to the Kuppaswami Sastri Research Institute (Adarsh Sanskrit Shodha Samstha) for accepting this book for publication under its auspices. I greatly appreciate the efficient manner in which Ms. Vijaya Graphics, Madras, who typeset and printed this volume neatly and elegantly, in spite of its rather complicated presentation. Last but not least, my grateful thanks are due to Dr. K. Kunjunni Raja, Director, Adyar Library and Research Centre, for adorning this publication with his instructive Foreword.

¹ In the manuscript, the word nammuc (Malayaḷam, 'our') which had been written originally has been crossed out and 'Deśamaṅgalatta' ('of Deśamaṅgalam') written instead, in order to make the ownership specific and clear.

² While the editorially supplied serial number of entries is given in col. one, columns two and three represent the actual words of the text of the List in manuscript No. 1262, 489, 561 and 1153 of the Kerala Univ. Or. Res. Inst. and Mss. Library, Thiruvananthapuram (KU), while column 4 identifies the work and its author and provides an annotated translation. In the footnotes is given the reference in case the particular manuscripts are identified as deposited in the Kerala University Or. Res. Inst. and Mss. Library or in other repositories under the abbreviations: AL (Adyar Library, Madras), GOML (Govt. Or. Mss. Library, Madras), PU (Punjab University, Lahore), and VVRI (Vishveshvaranand Vedic Res. Inst., Hoshiarpur):

SREE SARADA EDUCATION SOCIETY RESEARCH CENTRE

THE WORK

Deśamaṅgalam Vāriyam in Kerala had been, during the middle ages, a reputed centre of Sanskrit learning and the family has produced several generations of scholars who have left substantial writings, both original and commentarial. The family had also amassed a large collection of manuscripts, in everyone of which they had inscribed their family mudrā. The manuscripts had also been listed, some in a classified manner and the others in a general manner. Though the collection, as such, has been dissipated, using the said lists and the mudrā, it has been possible to identify as many as 1640 Deśamaṅgalam manuscripts which are catalogued here duly annotated and indexed.

THE AUTHOR

Dr. K.V. SARMA (b. 1919), B.Sc., M.A. (Skt.), D. Litt. (Skt.), Dip. in French and German, former Director of the well-known Vishveshvaranand Institute of Sanskrit and Indological Studies, Punjab University, Hoshiarpur, and presently Hon. Professor, Adyar Library & Research Centre, Madras, has been an active manuscriptologist for full 50 years, now, from 1943, when he functioned as the Supervising Pandit of the Kerala University Manuscripts Library, Trivandrum. He is the author of a number of research papers on manuscriptology. He is the author/critical editor from manuscripts of over sixty books, his latest work being, Research in Sanskrit: A Classified Guide to Reference Sources, Directories and Bibliographies.
